Providing quality education to the deprived and poor!

The goal of education in India today should be to create a modern India which is united and secular in outlook, India whose citizens are productive of progress in every field, humane and caring towards everyone while being enlightened and proactive in every sphere that affects their daily existence. Added to the above, as Catholics our educative endeavours must be in line with the National Catholic Policy on Education, which demands that the education that we provide should be:

- An education of quality and relevant to all, and in particular to the marginalized sections of our society.
- An education that frees persons from the social conditions (such as caste, class, gender and other culture linked prejudices) which prevent them from living as free persons.
- An education that leads the young into the sacred space of every human person, making them aware of the inalienable human rights of every person and every group, fostering pluralism, cultural and religious diversity and dialogue, which will ensure individual and collective freedom, as well as respect and appreciation of differences.
- An education that humanises and contextualises, by assisting students to raise essential questions regarding the meaning of life and of their role in society, enabling them to become conscious of their responsibility to contribute to an evolving society and to promote the common good.
- An education that enables the youth to understand the deeper implications of economic and political policies, structures and decisions that play a critical role in people's lives.
- An education that energises the young to take up the task of contributing towards nation building, so as to evolve a new inclusive Indian society.
- An education that forms the young to become adult men and women of character and competence, with consciences that exude compassion and commitment.
- An education which nurtures an encounter with God that ensures a free response to the call of their individual faith and which nurtures a life of meaning, purpose and personalised values, including an appreciation of other faith systems.

We Salesians of Don Bosco, engaged in the field of education in India as specialists in the domain of education of the young, need to address the following questions and find the relevant answers individually and collectively:

1. What are the characteristics of an ideal Don Bosco School? This question will force us to have a closer look at our target group, analyse and study in detail the elements of the Don Bosco's Charism and the Preventive System of education, make relevant these characteristics in our schools, while being realists to understand the difficulties experienced in actualizing these characteristics and finding ways to overcome the challenges.

2. Given the numerous constraints that impact life today, viz. the social, legal, economic, political and technological factors, what would be relevant scenarios to be considered in the next 10 years? The answers to this question will determine our awareness of the changes that will affect education at the school level in the decade ahead and our readiness to meet these changes, the emphases we need to list and prioritise while discarding the obsolete, and the need to be inventive, coming up with new ideas and initiatives to encounter positively the changed situations.
3. Have we, Salesians of Don Bosco made an adequate impact nation-wide through our formal schools? A nation-wide analysis of our impact would probably make us consider the need of non-institutionalised education, that would facilitate the deprived and the drop-outs to get the very best education in other institutions through non-institutional means and help them get back into the mainstream. This impact analysis would also force us into new avenues and unexplored territories like moving out of our institutions and offering our services in other institutions like Government and NGO schools, so as to act as salt and leaven, the catalysts for positive social change. Here we would also see a new paradigm where we become animators and train our lay collaborators to take over the administration of our institutions. As animators, our concentration would be more on faith education and lobbying for the rights of children. We would thus see our role in education in a new way, so as to increase our impact in reach and in depth.
4. Have we have made adequate efforts to influence Government policy on education? We will see here the need for advocacy in areas and structures of Government that deal with education, the need to accelerate, or at least maintain the influence that we can have on government policy.

It would be a mistake on our part to sit back and rest on our laurels of the past, enumerating with pride the names of great and notable personalities of the past and present, in domains that stretch through the panorama of human existence like politics, sports, music, cinema etc. who have passed through the portals of our formal educational institutions. While not discounting in any way our past achievements in creating a wide gallery of eminent persons like Purno Sangma, Ravi Shastri, the Amritraj brothers, Viswanathan Anand, Mahesh Bhatt, Piyush Goyal, Sarbananda Sonowal and others, we need to look beyond the present horizon towards new vistas that will bring out the best in us, as was the case with our founder Don Bosco. The extent of our reach on a national and even international level, through the wide range of networking that we have and the quality of our education which has made 'DON BOSCO' a brand name globally, can be very positively used towards our goal of providing quality education to the deprived and poor, both in rural and urban settings.

Fr. Maria Charles SDB and his team at All India Don Bosco Education Society (AIDBES) have done a very commendable work in compiling this Directory of Education in Salesian India. It contains data from the different educational institutions spread across all the provinces of Don Bosco in India. While all attempts were made to make this directory as current and accurate as possible, it is obvious that a cutoff date (2016) was inevitable and data fluctuations have to be factored into a compilation like this which may account for some discount on its accuracy. I place on record the appreciation of all the Salesians in India, to the team that has brought out this publication. May everyone who picks up this volume be reminded of Don Bosco, our father and founder, the educator per excellence of the 19th century, who continues the educative work that he started for the needy young of his day, to others of future generations and times through his sons, the Salesians of Don Bosco (SDB).

DON BOSCO -

An Educator with a Difference

Saint John Bosco (16 August 1815 - 31 January 1888), known as Don Bosco, was an Italian Roman Catholic priest, Educator and writer of the 19th century, who put into practice the convictions of his religion, dedicating his life to the betterment and education of disadvantaged youth. He believed education to be a “matter of the heart”. Don Bosco was a Father and a Teacher of the youth. Friendship was his key to success. “It is not sufficient to love the young, they must know that they are loved”. This was the basis of Don Bosco’s life and work.

He felt, it is only when the young feel loved that they can grow and he truly loved them. He was more than just a friend to any young person he met. He vowed to do everything he could to ensure that young people get a good life. He rejected the repressive system of education and chose the ‘Preventive system’ instead. The ‘Preventive System’ is based entirely on reason, religion and above all loving kindness; therefore, it rests on relationship centred learning.

He developed a comprehensive concept of education. It entailed the total development of the person, bringing out the best of a person’s potentialities, integrating within his method his very own charisma, spontaneity and joy. He believed in giving the young, God and spiritual experiences to make their life more meaningful. He believed that it was important to offer the young value-based education, so that they make right choices in life. The Preventive System, makes a friend of the pupil, who looks upon his educator as a benefactor who counsels him, wishes to best him good, to save him from trouble, from punishments, and from dishonour.

One of his convictions was: “Let the boys have full liberty to jump, run and make as much noise as they please. Gymnastics, music, theatricals and outings are most efficacious means of obtaining discipline and of benefiting spiritual and bodily health.” And again: “In every youngster, even the most wretched, a point of goodness is accessible, and it is the primary duty of the educator to discover that spot, that sensitive cord of the heart, so as to draw out the best in the young person.”

Don Bosco asked the Educators to treat the young as their teachers. To learn the needs, hopes, and insecurities of young people should be paramount in the minds and the hearts of the Educators. Don Bosco wanted his ‘Preventive System’ to be used with the young. ‘Reason’ refers to a wise and progressive enlightenment of the minds of the young, opening them to the world, to culture, to the realities of life and the appeal of values. ‘Religion’, indicates that his pedagogical approach is essentially transcendent, that it emerges from and is oriented towards relationship with God. Don Bosco believed that every young person needs to raise his/her mind to God to understand HIS plan for his/her life. ‘Loving-kindness’ is the most unique element in Don Bosco’s system and is more a daily attitude of love that has the good of the other at heart and which works so that the students realize their potential with growing independence. The capacity for true love, openness to others, ability for mutual acceptance, unconditional and positive appraisal; kindness, sincerity of mind, constant respect for justice; pleasantness in dealing with others, are basic requirements for a Salesian Educator.

While preventing youth from physical, psychological, moral and spiritual harm, he was equally concerned about the participation of young people in a growth-enhancing process for honest citizenship – the positive dimensions of his method.

His beliefs, positive thoughts and fondness for the young, kept on inspiring him to do more and even after his death his followers continue to work with the same eagerness and faithfulness.

Don Bosco Schools – India

A Purview!

Education has a preparatory value and enables individuals to earn their livelihood or to make both ends meet in order to live happily and successfully. Education should aim at imparting knowledge, skill, and information to the pupils, in order to make them self-reliant; not to be a drag or a parasite on others. Education is always to enhance one's personal development and is for the good of Society.

Aims and Objectives of Don Bosco Schools

The Aim of Don Bosco Schools all over the globe is to promote the integral development and the rights of the person. It is to provide a personalized education to every pupils, so that they can become autonomous, responsible and capable of choosing freely, in conformity with their conscience. We, the educational institutions of Don Bosco in India strive to offer integral formation to the young vis-à-vis academics, culture, god-experience, personal and social development and help them make the right choices in life.

All educational activities within a Don Bosco School are carried out according to a basic educational philosophy which is usually referred to as the 'Preventive System'. The 'Preventive System' is a stream of positive activity flowing throughout the whole school, from the Principal to the youngest students, from the non-teaching staff to the very atmosphere in the institutions.

It is the Principal and the teachers, who take the responsibility of creating an educative environment which allows the teachers and students to carry out their duties without tension or hardship. In this regard the physical and educational structures are constantly reviewed, so that any in-built cause of disorder may be eliminated.

The Preventive System, makes a friend of the pupil, who looks upon his educator as a benefactor who counsels him, wishes to make him good, to save him from trouble, from punishments and from dishonour. Teachers are assistants, guides and directors, and are often with the students. They also join, if possible, in student's activities and are present with them during recreation, not as supervisors, but as assistants.

Belongingness, security, and recognition are attained in this system of education by the confidence generated through this interpersonal relationship between pupils and teachers who, in Don Bosco's words, are like "loving fathers" encouraging and praising at the proper moment.

Don Bosco's System of education synthesized a systematic assimilation of culture and an appropriate form of education, thus enabling the young to choose and adhere to enriching values and convictions. We at Don Bosco schools believe in the concept of Holistic education.

Don Bosco Schools in India: An Appraisal

The first registered Don Bosco Night school was opened in 1908, at Thanjavur, Tamil Nadu. In the decades to follow, Don Bosco Schools began to be founded among the very poor and the most disadvantaged. We have come a long way in the last hundred years. We now have 260 plus academic schools all over India, out of which around 47 percent are in the rural areas, catering to the poor and the marginalised. Many thousands who have passed through our system of education are doing well for themselves and contributing to society. The pupils have formed themselves into a past pupil associations which has global, national and state level offices. Don Bosco in India has become synonymous with the quality of education and service for the poor and marginalised youth.

Policies followed at Don Bosco Schools in India:

- Pursuit of excellence according to one's potential is of paramount importance. A variety of opportunities shall be offered to the students to enable them to develop multiple skills and cater to multiple intelligences.
- Poor and underprivileged children are given importance and wherever possible scholarships are given to help them receive education.
- Preventive System of Don Bosco is the method of Education to provide a 'whole person' development and a quality education.
- All teachers in the schools undergo training in the Preventive System of Education and are given in-service training for updating themselves, to hone their competence and remain true to the ideals of a Don Bosco School.
- Regular and periodic monitoring by the Provincial- the President of Don Bosco Organisation at the state level and his delegates is carried out in the Schools to ensure proper administration, enhancement of academic standards, safety and promotion of the rights of young people.
- All our schools help the young to learn to live with dignity and human rights and groom to become responsible citizens of the country.
- Through, various associations and opportunities the young are helped to develop their personality, develop their interpersonal skills and become conscious of their social environmental responsibility.
- The students are given awareness programmes to be conscious of their social responsibility and are given opportunities to help the poor and less privileged.

Some Innovative Measures!

Besides these, Don Bosco Schools have many other policies which ensure qualitative progress. Some of the innovative measures are, Don Bosco Board of Education at the state level; computer education for the poor in rural areas; Green line Programme to promote Environmental conservation; Human Rights Education; students counselling by professional counsellors; drawing up policies and programmes, through Educative communities which include the parents, teachers, students and the management; introducing SMART Classrooms; ISO Certification for some of our Schools; bridge schooling; mobile schools, mobile computer education in the poor villages and mobile libraries; education for the specialized group of Children (HIV infected/affected children); centres for school dropouts and many other such initiatives by Don Bosco Schools all over India.

The Second Revised Edition of the 'National Directory of Don Bosco Schools 2017 in India', is an attempt at networking the Don Bosco Schools, in order that they may undertake further educational initiatives for the poor young people; help the schools to emerge as a National forum for strengthening good educational practices across the nation; effectively train educators and students in Don Bosco's educative methods and finally become a voice for the voiceless among the poor, in Young India.

In this endeavour AIDBES has employed the service of Adhyayan Quality Standard, an organization working with schools, to do the Review and Evaluation in our Don Bosco Schools. Adhyayan validates the Don Bosco Schools Self-Review on the following 7 Key Performance Areas:

1. Don Bosco Schools Self Review and Evaluation (DBSSRE) Programme.

This is a six day programme, starting with Orientation Training given by the Adhyayan team on day 1. The Adhyayan team trains the school's team on how to undertake the Self-Review. Team members are drawn from following categories: School Leaders, Teachers, Non-Teaching Staff, Alumni, Management, Administrators, Parents and Students and local neighborhood community. The Principal leads the Schools Self- Review Evaluation (SSRE) Team.

On the Self-Review days, (2nd and 3rd day) Self-Review team led by the Principal will conduct their school's self-review and collectively assess the school's performance across 7 Key Performance Areas.

On the External Evaluation day, (4th day) the team of Assessors from Adhyayan will conduct an external evaluation across the 7 Key Performance Areas.

On the Quality Dialogue day (5th day) both the teams (External Assessors i.e. Adhyayan and Self-Review Team) come together to collectively assess the school's performance and build a consensus about it.

On the Action Planning day (6th day) both teams work together to identify key components and processes for the improvement of the school's performance.
